

Cody Cowboy: The Cowboy Ranch Where Legends Are Made

Nestled in the heart of the Wyoming wilderness, Cody Cowboy is a working cattle ranch that offers a taste of the Old West to visitors from all over the world. Led by acclaimed cowboy and horse trainer Cody Oldroyd, this authentic ranch provides an immersive experience that transports guests back to the days of rugged cowboys and wide-open spaces.

Each day at Cody Cowboy begins with a hearty breakfast of pancakes, bacon, and eggs. After breakfast, guests saddle up for a morning ride through the breathtaking Wyoming landscape. The experienced wranglers lead riders of all skill levels through meadows, forests, and up into the mountains, providing a unique opportunity to witness the stunning beauty of the region.

After lunch, guests can learn the art of roping and branding cattle, two essential skills for any cowboy. Cody and his team of experienced ranch hands share their knowledge and techniques, helping guests to understand the daily life of a working cowboy.

As the sun begins to set, guests gather around a campfire for a traditional cowboy dinner of steak, beans, and potatoes. After dinner, Cody often shares stories of his life as a cowboy, providing a glimpse into the rich history and culture of the American West.

Accommodations and Amenities

Cody Cowboy offers a variety of accommodations to suit the needs of every guest. The ranch house features comfortable rooms with private bathrooms, while the bunkhouse provides a more rustic experience with shared bathrooms. The ranch also has a fully equipped kitchen, a large dining room, and a spacious living room with a fireplace.

In addition to horseback riding and cattle work, Cody Cowboy offers a range of other activities for guests to enjoy. Guests can go hiking, fishing, or swimming in the nearby river. The ranch also has a petting zoo, where guests can interact with friendly farm animals.
