How Does Making Movies Reading Rocks 1252 Work?

The Making Movies Reading Rocks 1252 program is a six-week program that is typically offered during the summer months. Students in the program watch a different movie each week and then participate in a variety of activities that are designed to help them develop their reading skills.

The activities in the program are based on the Common Core State Standards for English Language Arts. The activities include:

- Pre-reading activities: These activities help students to build background knowledge and vocabulary before they watch the movie.
- During-reading activities: These activities help students to track their understanding of the movie as they watch it.
- Post-reading activities: These activities help students to reflect on the movie and to apply what they have learned to their own reading.
